SHERIFF RICE IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Sheriff Rice met with an auto accident last Friday near the turn on the Lihue side of Koloa, which has been the scene of so many road mishaps lately.

He was driving along at a moderate speed, but on rounding a turn in the highway, came squarely up against a large truck. In endeavoring to avoid a collision he ran his machine into the grass at the side of the road. There proved to be a ditch beneath the grass and shrubbery, however, and the machine went down, breaking a fender and causing other minor injuries.

No one was really to blame for the accident, the fault lying principally with the road.

The forthcoming Christmas edition will be even more beautiful, more desirable as a souvenir of Kauai and more valuable for permanent reference. Friends wishing large numbers of copies of this edition would confer a favor by sending their orders to the business office of THE GARDEN ISLAND without delay, for upon these advance orders will depend to some extent the number to be printed.

Mails That Failed

Neither the Niihau, arriving at Waimea Sunday morning, nor the Texan, reaching Port Allen Monday morning, brought mail for the Lihue side of the island much to the disappointment of many people.

SINNERS BEFORE THE KOLOA JUDGE

Ten Japanese were arrested in Lawai camp Saturday night for gambling, and put up $10 bail each. When the case was called in the Koloa court yesterday morning not a man showed up and the entire bail of $100 was declared forfeited. Dan'ela, while intoxicated, visited the house of Antone Costa and assaulted that party. In court yesterday he was reprimanded and assessed the costs of court, amounting to $2.

Two Filipinos started a fight in the Koloa Plantation store, and one gave the other a black eye. The injured man went outside and waited for his assailant and when the latter appeared returned the compliment by giving him also a darkened optic. The court felt that as the honors of the battlefield were about even, both men should go with a reprimand.

Beet Seed Proposition

Salt Lake City—The conditions under which Germany will allow the exportation of beet seed for American planting for next year was submitted at a meeting of United States sugar manufacturers today and was received with a degree of consternation. It is plain that the terms cannot be complied with.

Germany agrees to permit the export of the seed required but only on condition that the United States arrange for the shipment of $850,000 of foodstuffs to Germany in exchange.

Inasmuch as this condition will be impossible of accomplishment, it seems likely that beet sowing in the United States will be reduced by one half next year.

SHERIFF BECOMES A SMALL FARMER

The troubles of Hee Fat, the one-time wealthy Chinese rice planter of Kauai, have resulted in Sheriff Rice becoming, temporarily at least, a small farmer.

Hee Fat has been in the courts many times. Pending at present against him is a suit of several Chinamen for an accounting, the case involving a large amount of rice on lands near Kapaa. As is generally known rice has the habit of growing, maturing and ripening, and applies itself diligently to that business, regardless of lawsuits and courts; and that is what the rice of Hee Fat has been doing while the suit has wormed its way through legal channels and tangles.

The suit could not be settled in time to save the rice, nor was a compromise possible whereby one side or the other might harvest it. It was, therefore, finally agreed that the rice should be turned over to the sheriff to harvest.

Sheriff Rice gathered together the laborers of the estate and they are now engaged in harvesting and milling the crop. The rice (that is the grain—not the sheriff) will eventually be turned over to the successful litigants.

More Overloading

Ozaki, a jitney driver, ran afoul of the Kauai law which forbids overloading autos, on Saturday. He deposited bail in the sum of $5, but on Monday failed to appear in the Lihue district court, so the amount was declared forfeited.

Germans vs. Filipinos

A baseball game with a low score was played in Lihue park Sunday afternoon, the competitors being the German and Filipino teams. At the close of the nine innings the score stood 3 to 2 in favor of the former.

Anon Kuhlman, twirler of the regular Lihue baseball team, pitched for the Germans.

Tennis Notes

Lost Part Of Finger

While cutting grass for horses last Thursday afternoon, a Japanese going by the nickname of Bean Williams, employed by the Makee Sugar Company, cut off a part of the fore finger of his left hand.

Unfortunate Mixup

On account of the dropping out of the sub-head and explanatory lines, the Civic Convention addresses of Chas. R. Frazier and J. M. Lydgate, published in last issue, were "run together" in a most unfortunate manner, a fact most earnestly deplored. However, this paper will see to it that every part and particle of each splendid address, down to the smallest punctuation points, will find their proper places in the official account of the proceedings, shortly to be published.

KAUAI PINES TO THE CANAL ZONE

The Honolulu Advertiser says: A. T. Longley wrote to L. D. Timmons of Kauai yesterday suggesting that a possible outlook for the Kapaa homesteaders pineapples might be found at the Canal Zone. Some of the big sugar freighters leave for New York via the canal direct from Port Allen, making journey to Balboa in about sixteen days.

There are plenty of pineapples in the Canal Zone markets from December to March but none at all at this time of the year. Also at this season there is practically no market whatever for homesteaders' pines grown on Kauai. The cannery has shut down, and the fruit cannot be shipped to San Francisco via Honolulu because island steamers would not land it here in time to make close connections. The fruit would have to be warehoused here in transit and it is doubtful whether the fruit would stand it. Kauai has direct connection with Balboa, however, and no one knows whether Hawaiian pines can or cannot be sold in the zone. The only way to find out is to try it. And so Mr. Longley has written to Kauai to interest the Canal board of trade in the venture and get them to help out their own farmers, who certainly are in need of help. The quantity of pines to sell is not very large but the men who are growing them cannot afford to lose their crop. Every outlet for a Hawaiian product is worth looking into.

(No such letter has yet been received by the Kauai Chamber of Commerce.)

Civic Subscribers

The following subscribers to the expense fund of the Civic Convention were inadvertently omitted from the list published last week: W. D. McBryde and A. A. Akana, Lawai; H. Smythe, Elele, and Paul Kahilbaum, Waimea.

High School Saturday

On account of taking a day off while the Civic Convention was in Lihue, the High School had a session on Saturday. During the day Inspector Raymond visited the school.

Koreans Have Fight

Kim Chun Soon, Korean, was found guilty in the Lihue district court yesterday morning of assault and battery on a fellow countryman. The assailant admitted that he was drunk at the time. He not only beat but bit his friend quite badly. The court assessed a fine of $10 and ordered the defendant to pay costs of court, amounting to $5.

Talking Pictures

On another page will be found the announcement of Eddie Fernandez in regard to a new program of talking pictures which he will display in Hale Hooni theater Wednesday evening, beginning at the usual hour. There will also be motion pictures of the work of saving the submarine F-4, which should prove generally interesting.

The man with knives, watches, potato peelers, etc., and his bargain stand has reached Kauai. One has been holding forth of evenings on the streets of Lihue lately.
